Temple Emanuel, Newton Centre (Benjamin Vestry)

Roger Weiss, the webmaster for the Jewish Genealogical Society of Greater Boston, is the owner of the Boston Web Company and has been restoring photographs for many years. As a web designer, he uses pictures for his clients' websites. Clients often use old photos which may be faded, cracked, and yellowed, or may even have missing pieces. During his talk, Roger will discuss photo restoration techniques and provide advice about what we can do at home. The talk will include plenty of examples and cover such topics as storing and scanning your photos, fixing yellowed or faded photos, repairing tears or cracks, removing stains, as well as suggestions for necessary hardware and software.

Hal Slifer, one of New England's top videographers, has been capturing family memories for over 25 years. His work has been shown at numerous Jewish organizations. He has also done promotional videos for the Rashi School, Solomon Schechter Day School, and Gann Academy. Hal's specialty is producing biographies for families that include family interviews, photographs, and home movies to create a family legacy that will be passed down through the generations.
